

FEB -8 1922 ✓

ASSOCIATED FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

OF

©CIL 17532 ✓

WASHINGTON, D. C., INC.

6TH FLOOR, MATHER BUILDING
916 G ST., N. W.
PHONE MAIN 176

Title Page.

✓ "RED HOT ROMANCE." ✓

A Photoplay in 6 Reels.

✓ Directed by Victor Fleming.

Author of Photoplay Joseph M Schenck U S A. ✓

There'll be a Franchise everywhere

FEB -8 1922

REQUEST FOR RETURN OF COPYRIGHT DEPOSITS

Dated at Washington D.C.

Feb 8, 1922

Register of Copyrights,
Library of Congress,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

The undersigned claimant of copyright in the work herein named, deposited in the Copyright Office and duly registered for copyright protection, requests the return to him under the provisions of sections 59 and 60 of the Act of March 4, 1909, of one or both of the deposited copies of the 2 Prints entitled Red Hot Romance. 6 reels

deposited in the Copyright Office on Feb 8-1922 and registered under Class, Xxc., No. ©Cl 17532

If this request can be granted you are asked and authorized to send the said copy or copies to me at the following address:

or
to
at

Signed Associated First National Pictures Inc.
(Claimant of Copyright)

July, 1920-500

✓ Copies Returned
FEB 13 1922
Delivered in person

W. S. Sumner
2/10/22

G.K.-B.F.T.

FEB -8 1922

©CIL 17532

JOHN EMERSON 100%
and
ANITA LUCAS 100% present 10%
Their Own Production 25%
"RED HOT ROMANCE" 100%
Management of Joseph M. Schenck 25%
A First National (T.M.) Attraction 25%

CAST

Rowland Stone Basil Sydney
Lord Howe-Greene Henry Warwick
King Caramba the Thirteenth Frank Lalor
General de Castanet Carl Stockdale
Madame Pulloff de Plotz Olive Valerio
Colonel Cassius Byrd Edward Connelly
Anna Mae Byrd May Collins
Jim Conwell Roy Atwell
Thomas Snow Tom Wilson
Marry Lillian Leighton
Signor Frijole Snitz Edwards

SYNOPSIS

Young Rowland Stone was struggling along in the family mansion at Washington D. C., on an allowance of fifty dollars a week, awaiting his twenty-fifth birthday, when he was to come into the inheritance left him by his dad, old Harder N. Stone, former president of the Anglo-American Life Insurance Company. Knowing he would have money to burn when he got his inheritance, Rowland and the big, loyal coon who had raised him from a pup, - Thomas Snow, the brains of the family, - hooked the family furniture as the bills came in, for Rowland was crazy about a girl named Anna Mae Byrd and had to keep up appearances. Anna Mae was the daughter of old Colonel Byrd of Virginia, who had been hanging around Washington forty years, waiting for a job first promised him by President Hayes, and he insisted that Rowland should have his inheritance in hand before he married Anna Mae.

While the Stone mansion was getting emptier and emptier and the pawn shops of Washington fuller and fuller, Enrico de Castanet arrived in the city from the little kingdom of Bunkonia in the Pyrenees. With him was the international vamp and spy, Countess Pulloff de Plotz. The pair were engineering a revolution in Bunkonia and were anxious to get an American consul appointed whom they could handle easily, once they got him over there. They connected with an American "fixer" named Jim Conwell, who happened to be a rival of Rowland's for the affections of Anna Mae Byrd, and the three of them managed to have Colonel Byrd sent to Bunkonia as Consul, with Conwell as Secretary.

Rowland, left high and dry, had no alternative but to wait for his inheritance, which turned out to be a job with the Anglo-American Life Insurance Company at $25.00. If he made money for the company during the first year, he would come into the entire fortune left by his father; but if he lost money for the company he was not to get a nickel. Of course, Rowland was sunk, but Tom came through with the brilliant idea that he should sell his insurance in Bunkonia so as to be near Anna Mae.

The idea worked to a charm. Conwell and Madame Pulloff de Plotz, dismayed by Rowland's arrival, plotted to get Rowland to insure the lives of the drunken King and all his Council, knowing they would be the first to be killed in the revolution which would cause an enormous loss to Rowland's company. The unsuspecting Rowland walked right into the trap and sold a thumping lot of insurance to the royal gang, only to learn of the plot to kill the king and all his council and realize, aghast, that he had got to save every one he had insured or lose his fortune and his girl! How he made the country safe for Democracy, Insurance and his own future is the thrilling part of the story.

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, 1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress